

About Atkins

Our skills and technical ability enable us to turn complex engineering ideas into a technically viable reality by pulling together our expertise, knowledge and experience through our cross-discipline teamwork approach. Our ability to consider all the key engineering disciplines concurrently through the design process shall enable all aspects of a design and manufacturability to be considered together and therefore result in a co-ordinated solution.

We provide highly skilled engineering solutions from concept feasibility, detailed design, finite element and computational fluid analysis to production of full manufacturing drawings in many diverse industries. Particular areas of expertise include tunnelling machinery, pipelines, nuclear lifting and handling systems, vessels, moveable bridges and structures, machinery design, sub-sea oil production and power generation.

Because we have experience designing for both clients and manufacturers, we have the unique ability to deliver completed detailed designs that will open up the number of potential suppliers with the absolute knowledge of precisely what will be built and installed.

Originally founded in 1984, Bennett Associates was acquired in 2008 by Atkins; bringing their proven technical expertise to the UK's leading engineering consultancy.

Atkins Rotherham office is considered a centre of excellence within the Atkins Group.
